Paid Circulation Of Over 2,100 Is Result Of Public Welcome

Era and Express Sells 876 Copies Weekly In Town Of Newmarket Alone, 882 Others In Trading Area

How does the public like the amalgamated newspaper, The Newmarket Era and Express?

Circulation figures seem to indicate that the new newspaper has had a royal welcome from the people of Newmarket,

Aurora and district.

The Era and Express completed four months of publication on Sept. 30. Net paid circulation for the last three of those four months was 2,067. That is an average of the paid circulation (including single copies sold, but excluding subscriptions in arrears, copies to advertisers, correspondents, exchanges, or any free or unsold copies) for each week for the three months.

Circulation for September alone was much better than the three months average, and puts The Era and Express well up among the first dozen A. B. C. (Audit Bureau of Circulations) weeklies and semi-weeklies in the province.

September net paid average weekly circulation was: Newmarket 876 (including single copies bought by district residents at Newmarket stores), Aurora 267, trading zone, 615, all others 370, total 2,122.

The press run since the amalgamation has varied but has never been less than 2,700 copies. The combined press run of the two former newspapers was 3,200.

This fine net paid circulation showing is to be attributed to the co-operation and support of both the former readers of the Newmarket Era and the former readers of the Express-Herald. These readers have courteously accepted the paid-in-advance subscription requirements which enables The Era and Express to make a good A. B. C. showing and so obtain a reasonable share of available advertising. Not only national but local advertisers like this guaranteed and detailed information about the circulation of the newspaper from which they are buying advertising space.

There is still a short list of former Express-Herald subscribers who are in arrears. All other subscribers, whether former Era or former Express-Herald or new subscribers, receive notification when their subscriptions expire and if, for any reason, they do not choose to renew the newspaper is no longer mailed to them.

CARROT SAYS VICTORY

Victory will come out of the ground, Canadian farmers say. Production of food is an essential war industry.

An omen of victory comes out of the ground at Gordon Hill's farm on Yonge St. in the form of a V carrot, two six-inch carrots, with a single head, growing into the earth at right angles to each other.

ST. PAUL'S GROUPS BEGIN YEAR'S WORK

The first meeting of the season of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Anglican church was held at the home of Mrs. S. J. Marwood on Monday afternoon and the first Young People's meeting was held in the evening in the parish hall.

Today the Women's Auxiliary is holding their monthly devotional and business meeting and next Thursday the Dorcas work begins. Anyone interested is welcome to attend next Thursday's meeting and see the woven rugs, the result of last season's work.

The first meeting of the Men's club will be held next Thursday. All the organizations are getting off to a good start and it is hoped all will have a successful season.

ADVISE MAILING NOW TO BOYS OVERSEAS

Santa Claus must get off to an early start if the armed forces overseas are to get their Christmas boxes on time. Though that holiday seems far in the distance, today is not too soon to start Christmas overseas mailings. The postmaster-general, Hon. William P. Mulock, advises that gifts should be sent now and during October, the earlier the better, to ensure timely delivery. Nov. 10 is the latest date that parcels may be mailed if they are expected to arrive in time for Christmas.

However, patrons are urged not to defer mailing until the very latest possible date but to mail early and prevent congestion, and give the postal authorities opportunity to arrange for cargo space aboard ocean vessels.

To further facilitate the problem of providing adequate shipping space for the Christmas mails to the forces, it is suggested that although the maximum weight of a parcel at reduced rate is set at 11 pounds senders should voluntarily cut down as far as possible on the weight and size of their Christmas packages. If they do so they will help make more accommodation available for other parcels on the same ship, and give the post office the chance to make deliveries in time for all.

STRICKEN AT COTTAGE, TORONTO MAN, 77, DIES

HOLD HOLIDAY TOURS

The Newmarket Lawn Bowling club will have a mixed fours tournament on Thanksgiving day, Monday, Oct. 12, commencing at 10 a.m. The rinks are to be picked.

24 RINKS COMPETE AT MEN'S BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Twenty-four rinks competed at the men's bowling tournament held on the Newmarket greens on Wednesday afternoon. The weather was excellent and there was a good turn-out. First for three wins was Cameron's rink, Canada Club, Toronto. Dr. Brereton of Toronto, a member of the Newmarket club, was second with three wins and J. O. Little, Newmarket, was third with three wins.

Muir's rink, Canada club, Toronto, was first with two wins and Ford's rink, Greenwood club, Toronto, was first with one win.

LIVED IN STOUFFVILLE DISTRICT FOR 27 YEARS

Peter Lehman, brother of Frank Lehman of Newmarket, died recently at his home in Stouffville. Mr. Lehman was in his 81st year and had been a resident of the Stouffville district for 27 years.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Lillian Tripp; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Stoofler, Stouffville, and Mrs. Thos. Hargrave, Toronto; one brother, Frank Lehman, Newmarket, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Brandon, Pine Orchard.

Mr. Jackson discussed with the board the collection of the $2 a month fee for non-resident pupils. The board authorized an expenditure of $50 for power saw for use by the manual training teacher in preparation of work for the students. The saw would save time and material, Mr. Jackson said.

Mr. Jackson is presenting the primary reading material has been appreciated by teachers and pupils and in my opinion the improvement in the work will justify the expenditure. The new chairs have been useful and for many years will be a valuable part of the equipment. May I add my appreciation of the board's co-operation in providing these additions?

"At any time I shall be willing to meet the board if the members so desire."

Mr. Jackson stated that a gift of $75 from Stanley G. Brock, Toronto, vice-president of Canada Packers, a former student at Alexander Muir school, $10 from a public school concert at the high school last Christmas and a balance from the Newmarket Home and School Association had purchased three radios, with record-playing attachments, for the three schools.

Mr. Jackson said that Mrs. Norman Williams is acting as a supply and art teacher very successfully.

Pte. Roy Chant, who has been seriously ill in a military hospital in Nova Scotia for the past two months, is somewhat improved but is still confined to hospital. He has been on active service two and half years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chant, Newmarket.

NEWMARKET FAMILY HELPED OPEN NORTH

A pioneer citizen of the north country, who went to Temiskaming before the railway, more than 40 years ago, and a member of a family which gave its name to one of the earlier communities of the district, Thomas Gordon Heaslip died last Friday in hospital at Kirkland Lake. Mr. Heaslip had been ill for about a week before his death, which followed an operation. He would have been 74 on Saturday.

The late Mr. Heaslip had been a resident of northern Ontario since 1901, broken only by service overseas in the last war. He was one of a Newmarket family of eight brothers and five sisters. Six of the brothers went up the White River in the early days of the present century. Thomas Heaslip settled first at Toms-town, shortly afterwards moving to what is now Heaslip, and while that remained home to him for years, he had been engaged in different enterprises in various parts of Temiskaming.

"No effort is made to dogmatize on the particular tenets of denominations. Children are allowed to withdraw during the instruction period if their parents wish, but in Kingston I found Jewish youngsters taking part and doing particularly well in answering questions."

Mr. Johnson quoted a statement that if the British empire ever were to fall it would not be by the weight of arms but through her own moral decline.

"This is not a brain-wave of our own," he said. "This is something that is being pressed on us continually by our church authorities."

Chairman W. H. Eves quoted from the school law to the effect that every school is to be opened with the Lord's prayer and scripture, and closed with prayer, but that no child is to be required to take part in religious exercises to which the parents object. He said that provision was made in the school law for the clergy to go into the schools and teach according to a pre-prepared material.

"The York county Home and School council on Saturday highly recommended religious training in the schools," said Mrs. J. C. R. Edwards.

"It is being pushed because of an increase in juvenile delinquency in Toronto."

"In what grades would you give instruction?" asked R. L. Pritchard, secretary of the board.

"Six?"

"Six, that is eight and nine years, and grade seven," said Mr. Cotton. "And perhaps later we could with your permission go into the eighth."

"I think that this is a very fine thing," said Principal H. A. Jackson. "I agree that it should be done, for the effect it will have in preventing delinquency. I think it should include grade eight. Would it be taught in high school?"

"Not just now," said Mr. Cotton. "We wouldn't want to undertake too much at once."

"The opening exercises take from ten to 15 minutes," said Mr. Jackson. "Half an hour would mean only another 15 minutes."

"The reading of the scripture on other mornings by the teacher could be arranged to fit in with the lesson for the week," suggested Mr. Stein.

After the delegation had left, Trustees Frank Bothwell and Mrs. Edwards moved that permission be given for teaching religion in whatever rooms it could be worked out, provided that the teaching be non-sectarian.

Trustees L. B. Rose, R. L. Pritchard and Stephen Rose all supported the resolution.

ST. PAUL'S CONTINUES THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The harvest Thanksgiving services were continued at St. Paul's Anglican church on Sunday. Rev. H. G. Blake of Trinity church, Bradford, gave the address in the evening, and Rev. G. H. Johnson took the service at Bradford.

The first Sunday in October is observed every year as Children's Day and the morning service was devoted to the children.

Mrs. G. H. Johnson has charge of the junior congregation on Sunday morning in the parish hall after they have attended the first part of the regular Sunday morning service.

ARREST JUVENILES

Following a break-in at J. A. Perks' feed mill on Sept. 24, and the theft of $10 in cash, Chief Constable James Slemon took three juveniles to the Juvenile court today.

IS PROGRESSING

Mrs. Delbert Gibney, who is ill in York County hospital, is progressing favorably.

RELIGION WILL BE TAUGHT IN SIX AND SEVEN

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD APPROVES PLAN FOR RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

CLERGY TEACH

Religious education will be given by Newmarket clergymen for one half hour weekly to the senior grades of Newmarket's three public schools.

The public school board made this decision at a meeting on Friday evening after hearing three members of the Newmarket Ministerial Association, Rev. G. H. Johnson, Rev. Henry Cotton and Rev. A. B. Stein.

"There is a feeling that there is a certain amount of lack in the fundamental training of our youth," Mr. Cotton told the board. "A Boston judge had 4,000 juvenile delinquents before him. Less than 25 had ever been in a Sunday-school. It is apparent that religion, the things the Bible stands for, children do not get in the homes. Only half of them are in the Sunday-schools.

"Respect for womanhood, for parents, grows out of knowledge of God, of Christ, and all our British laws are based on God's laws. No matter how much arithmetic, or English, they learn, if they lack this respect for God, for man, they have a fundamental lack. In many Ontario cities ministers are allowed half an hour a week for religious teaching."

"We started this over a year ago in Kingston as an experiment," said Mr. Stein. "The board of education was so delighted with the results at the half-way mark that they asked the ministerial association to extend the teaching from the sixth to the seventh grades.

"No effort is made to dogmatize on the particular tenets of denominations. Children are allowed to withdraw during the instruction period if their parents wish, but in Kingston I found Jewish youngsters taking part and doing particularly well in answering questions."

WHAT ELSE CAN WE DO?

The Victory loan just around the corner will have more enthusiastic support from all classes of the population, we venture to predict, than any of its predecessors.

Aside from Hong-Kong and Dieppe, R.C.A.F. raids on the continent and participation in the Egyptian campaign, and the part Canadian seamen, navy and merchant, are playing in the Atlantic struggle, the home front prospects are beginning to look different.

The "have-littles" can see that, whether by accident or design, taxation and government changes are coming about, have already taken place, that distribute burdens and privileges more fairly among sections of the country and all classes of the population. The "have-muchs" can see that they have to do all they can, in addition to paying unprecedented tax levies, to renovate and rebuild the creaking old economic machine to do an every-man-at-work job.

We haven't heard any complaints from either group, or the in-betweens, and we gather that the universal attitude is like that of a small boy at the Christmas season: "What else can I do, Ma?"

LAMPLIGHTER

The reduction of street lighting by 20 percent is apparently not a simple matter. "Hydro News" suggests some of the factors that should be considered. Danger spots, places where there have been a number of accidents, should have normal lighting maintained if at all possible. There are two or three places in Newmarket that have had a number of accidents.

Another point made is that reduction of lamps to one size smaller than those ordinarily used will give a reduction of more than 20 percent and should not be resorted to wholesale. "It is suggested that careful consideration be given to the method of effecting a saving, in order that the remaining power may be used most effectively in the prevention of accidents and as a deterrent to crime." All suggestions made can be considered, but all obviously cannot be followed.

Against reducing lighting on residential streets is the suggestion: "In certain small municipalities the lighting on some residential streets is no more than enough to mark the general direction of the streets and it is very doubtful if the illumination produced by reduced lighting would be of any value to pedestrians." Whether Newmarket's residential street lighting can be reduced and still be useful we do not know, but at least the article from "Hydro News" suggests some of the factors that will no doubt be taken into consideration when the town works out its final plan of reduced lighting. As citizens we will have to bear in mind that the light department may be trying to avoid accidents if it should light one section or one corner better than another.

"ORDINARY CITIZEN"

Wendell Willkie, the Republican ambassador of U. S. democracy, tells China that the common man in all the United Nations feels the time has come to take the offensive everywhere. "I have learned that the ordinary citizen from Cairo to Moscow to Chungking is a lover of liberty and wants action now," says Mr. Willkie.

The only difficulty is that it will not be the common man, or the ordinary citizen, who will take the offensive. It will be the uncommon man, the extraordinary citizen, brave fellows like the men of Dieppe, who cheerfully carry out orders but do not share in the decisions—"theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die," who will take the offensive for which the common man and the ordinary citizen clamor.

"This ordinary citizen is far ahead of his leaders," Mr. Willkie is quoted as saying. "He is ready now. He is the strength of the United Nations. His faith in the justice of our cause makes him a superman. We must all catch his infectious spirit of enthusiasm for immediate, slashing, courageous attack to enable us to sweep over aggressor nations, and on to a new world of victory with justice, freedom, equality and opportunity for all nations." (Mr. Willkie probably said "equality of opportunity.")

If only these supermen could be uniformed and instructed to invade the continent, there would be nothing further to worry about, but Roosevelt, Churchill and their high command, let us be glad, are responsible leaders who are not throwing our men at the bristling guns of the continent until they think the time is ripe and, apparently, until they have thoroughly softened up Germany by bombing from the air. They are giving Germany such a pounding as no country ever had before and they are using brave men to do it, but they are using them effectively and economically. When men risk their lives they have a right to feel that their contribution is worthwhile, and is not just to satisfy the uninformed whim of a mass meeting.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

SOCIALISM IN OUR TIME

(Brampton Conservator)

Peel C.C.F. Association is arranging a series of public meetings. Activity is being displayed in different parts of the province. Candidates for the constituency of South Waterloo have been chosen. For the federal seat Frank Ferguson, a schoolmaster, is the choice, and Grieve Robinson, a merchant, for the local. "Conscription of Wealth" will be the chief plank in the platform. The King government is carrying out that part of the program already, and without C.C.F. assistance.

BREAD DELIVERIES

(Brampton Conservator)

Frequently, in view of the government's appeal to everyone to save tires and gasoline and hours of labor, is heard the question "Why do we need the number of bread wagons that daily travel the streets of Brampton?" A similar situation exists in Bowmanville, according to The Statesman of that town. A recent issue of that paper complains as follows:

"Here is the local picture: Each day in the town of Bowmanville and in the surrounding district, may be seen from six to ten bread delivery trucks each owned by competing firms and corporations, and all scurrying for wartime business. All, according to directories, are Toronto or other metropolitan firms and all evidently are violating the 35 mile delivery law which really becomes effective on November 1. Conservation of gas, oil, rubber and manpower in this case evidently means nothing to these firms, to the 'controller' or to the government. All this in face of the fact that local bakeries can supply the complete needs of the community with equal or better quality at an equal or lower price, but big business attempts to shut them out."

"It costs 3¢ a loaf for long-distance delivery on top of all this senseless waste of oil and rubber."

It may be properly assumed that most large firms, like private individuals, are anxious to obey the restrictions that seem necessary. At the same time evidences such as that mentioned deserve explanation. A good example was furnished by the Telegram and Star. They had two trucks delivering papers. They found that one could do the work without injuring the service. Perhaps a further study of the question by the bread people would bring equally satisfactory results.

Of People And Things

THANKSGIVING
By Isabel Inglis Colville

I suppose the will to give thanks is one of the oldest impulses in the world. From the beginning of recorded history conquering kings and peoples thanked their many gods or Jehovah for giving them victory over their enemies, nations gave thanks for bountiful harvests and national prosperity and individuals made offerings at the shrines of the particular god which they felt had given them their desire, or, if they were Jews, took their offering to the temple.

Since the Christian era, most lands have harvest festivals but they were independent of the state—any place in any country could celebrate when and as they pleased.

But since the landing of the pilgrim fathers at Plymouth, the United States has had a national Thanksgiving and for a good many years now Canada has followed suit.

That is, we have a Thanksgiving Day, but whether we use it to give thanks or whether it's just another holiday is a question.

There are services in the churches, but although children often march in procession for various causes, they do not march carrying their flowers and fruit for Thanksgiving Day.

I can remember when the fruit and vegetables were, after they had made a bower at the church, given to those to whom they were a treat—it brought Thanksgiving home to the little ones.

It's a day when we welcome absent members of the family to the home circle and kill for them the fatted calf—usually a nice plump turkey or chicken with their appropriate accompaniments of potatoes, turnips and pumpkin pie and embellishments of pickles and sauces and jellies and we enjoy the day and are GLAD of it, but do we go deep down in our hearts and see if we are THANKFUL for it.

Not for the day, but what it stands for—this year especially—the more than bountiful harvest, untouched by enemies or by the scorched earth policy to keep it from the hands of our enemies.

For the right, the liberty to go to church and worship in the way best suited to our needs and the traditions we all hold dear.

For the right to talk of our hopes and fears, of what we wish the government would do, or wouldn't do, with no fear of a traitor in our midst to inform the dread Gestapo.

For the education of our children—AS children—not as puppets of the state, and for the right to listen to the radio, without being hauled off to a concentration camp.

As never before, we are at this time being asked to give of our money, our time, our work and our prayers, but are we giving thanks because of being able to give them.

How many countries are left where one would have any money to give, any time one could call one's own, any liberty to work at what would benefit one's fellow man?

As for prayers in the enslaved lands—they must be more for deliverance from evil than of thanksgiving. But surely—surely as God is in his heaven, there will come a day of WORLD thanksgiving when right shall have triumphed over might, when children shall be children, when our arms shall use, in a glorious peace-time, for the benefit of mankind.

It's a day when we welcome absent members of the family to the home circle and kill for them the fatted calf—usually a nice plump turkey or chicken with their appropriate accompaniments of potatoes, turnips and pumpkin pie and embellishments of pickles and sauces and jellies and we enjoy the day and are GLAD of it, but do we go deep down in our hearts and see if we are THANKFUL for it.

"Now thank we all our God. With hearts and hands and voices, Who wondrous things hath done, In whom the world rejoices. Who from our mothers' arms Hath blest us on our way. With countless gifts of love. And still is ours today."

"Don't Care What We Suffer As Long As We Win," English Lady Writes Mother

By GOLDEN GLOW

Last Wednesday I had a welcome and interesting letter from Mrs. Arthur Hare, Holland Landing, to tell me that they, at their home, are also interested in our "Peter" bird and, having seen in one of my recent articles that none of us were positive of his true identity, she writes to say he is the Baltimore oriole.

We have seen him and if he isn't the Baltimore oriole he is certainly first cousin. We have watched him up in the big walnut tree near my home and wondered and wondered. For we have the oriole here every spring, year after year, and he is our special favorite.

I know it is pretty hard on you, being so far away from us. I am so glad and proud you are among such fine people as the Canadians. Didn't they do some fine work in Dieppe. GLADIOLI FORM BRIDAL SETTING

Gladioli and ferns formed the background for a pretty wedding at the Christian Reformed church on Thursday evening when Miss Anne Winter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Winter, became the bride of Mr. J. Verkalk, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Verkalk.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white chiffon trimmed with lace and a floor-length veil, caught in a halo of lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss C. Winter, who wore a floor-length gown of coral chiffon and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Geo. Verkalk acted as best man.

Rev. M. Schans officiated and Mr. E. Biemold played the wedding music.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the bride's home. The bride's mother received the guests and wore a rust street-length dress. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a navy blue ensemble.

They both wore corsages of pink gladioli.

"Too Many Memories Here For Those Who Came Back," Soldier In Dieppe Raid Tells Sister

An interesting letter has been received from Mrs. G. H. McCann, Newmarket, from her brother, Pte. R. J. S. Shepherd, who has been overseas two years and who was in the Dieppe raid. Pte. Shepherd's home is in Crystal City, Man. Some interesting excerpts follow:

"I was talking to a lad from Newmarket at the second division sports about a month ago. He knew you people, but I forgot what his name was. "I got a parcel from Hazel and tobacco from mother last week. Also a parcel from the Royal Bank society in Winnipeg. ## FARM FORUM

By MAE HARMAN

Farm Radio Forum became international in its scope on Sept. 21. On that evening, Canadian farm folk were privileged to hear a specially arranged broadcast from Britain, featuring experts of British agriculture. The viewpoints of both the practical farmer and the government were clearly expressed.

On Oct. 26, Farm Radio Forum will present a broadcast from United States. Speakers will be Claude Wickard and Glen Talbot, secretary of the North Dakota Farmers' Union.

In November, Farm Forums will be resumed on a weekly basis. The objective for Ontario is one thousand Forums. A forum in every farm community of North York is not impossible. The procedure for organizing and carrying on meetings is very simple. Information may be obtained from the office of Ontario Farm Radio Forums, 28 Duke St., Toronto.

May I again emphasize the need for farmers to meet together, discuss their problems and take some action themselves. It is our duty as farmers and as Canadian citizens to make agriculture recognized as an important war industry. Only then, can we play our full part in the war effort, which is what we want most earnestly to do.

Now that I find myself caught in the whirl of university life, I feel that I cannot pursue my studies as I should and at the same time do justice to a column entitled "Farm Forum." Of more value would be reports of meetings of Farm Forums throughout the district. I look forward to seeing such reports, not just from two or three groups, but from tens of groups.

Since this is my last contribution to this paper, for the present, I want to express my thanks to the editor for his kindness to me. Also my appreciation goes to those who have been good enough to tell me that they found something of value and of interest in this column.

To all members of Farm Forums and of any other organization which exists for the common good, may you find both success and enjoyment in your work.

MOVIES PARADE

After a long search to find someone to portray the character based on Johns, another Welshman, Clifford Evans, was selected. He is co-starred in the film with Tommy Trinder and Constance Cummings.

"The First Commando," which plays at the Strand on Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday, is fiction, and the characters are fictional. But the story is based on the adventures of Melbourne Johns when he crossed war-torn France in those days of the Nazi breakthrough, taking with him the valuable machines in his care which he was determined should never fall into Nazi hands. He found a British army lorry in the charge of some exhausted Tommies who had lost their unit, persuaded them to help him, and, with the Germans only a few hours behind, raced across the refugee-packed countryside to the coast. He reached England safely with his precious machines, and it was only by sheer chance that his story got into the press. When Balcon decided to make a film around his adventures, Johns himself collaborated on the preparation of the screen story.

Location scenes were filmed in Cornwall, where the countryside was turned into French territory. The English signs, which were in the process of disappearing, were replaced by French signs; French hoardings went up; cars were given French number plates.

The tragic spectacle of homeless refugees, blocking the roads and interfering with military movements, forms part of the background of the film, providing a grim and topical lesson for the public in this country. Genuine French refugees appear in these scenes together with evacuees from London and other parts of the country and local Cornish folk.

Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore as Drs. Kildare and Gillespie, grapple with new medical problems in "Dr. Kildare's Victory," latest of the Kildare series, opening Wednesday at the Strand theatre.

A young intern gets in trouble saving a life in a zone supposed to be that of another hospital, and the two doctors, with the aid of a debutante accident victim whose life has been saved, finally save the day for the doctor and his sweetheart, a hospital nurse.

A dramatic plea to the hospital board, a delicate operation, an accident in which a night club sign falls on the victim, and Ayres' restoring of a smothered baby before the eyes of anguished parents, are dramatic highlights.

The picture introduces a glamorous new acting discovery in Ann Ayars, a young concert singer. She is beautiful, graphic actress.

Field day champion declared at De La Salle college last Saturday was: senior, Eddie Low, Toronto; intermediate, Mike Kuzak, Montreal, P.Q.; junior, Louis Stephen, Windsor.

All the students competed and with fine weather prevailing fine performances were recorded in most events. There was a good attendance of visitors.

Joining the local church by transfer were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Falkner of Port McNichol, Dr. and Mrs. Crawford Rose and Clayton Rose from Coleman, Alta.

PICKERING BEATS ST. ANDREW'S 27-9

In their opening clash of the season, Pickering college first blanked St. Andrew's majora by a crushing 27-0 score on the St. Andrew's gridiron Saturday. The Aurora boys presented an inexperienced and fightless team than the Pickering boys and it was only in courage they matched their opponents. Mason, on the half, Cornell at quarter and Maycock in the line won the winner's heat. Lapping and Straith won the stars for St. Andrew's. Tommy Myers and C. R. Blackstock handled the match in fine style.

WATERFORD BEATS ST. ANDREW'S 27-9

"Under the present system we do not know without personal inquiry what work has been done each week," Mayor Frank Underhill told the Aurora town council on Monday night.

"I would like to see some form of permanent record kept," the mayor said. "We would know just where all our materials go. It would serve as an inventory too."

"It is a good idea," said councillor A. N. Fisher. "The foremen can fill the records in daily and they can be kept in the clerk's office for all to see."

"The clerk can draft a form for the council to see and if we like it, we can have some printed," said the mayor. "It should not be too elaborate. Often these printed forms take too long to fill in."

"I will have a draft ready next week," promised Clerk A. C. A. Willis. "The chairman of each committee could tell at a glance just what work has been done."

"There should be no slip-ups with such a system," declared Reeve C. A. Malloy. "The men are doing the work all right, but we don't know what has been accomplished from week to week."

Cousins Dairy Is Entered Four Times In Two Years

Thieves made their way into Cousins Dairy for the fourth time in two years early Sunday morning. They were evidently frightened away while at work and departed in haste taking only a few packages of cigarettes and gum. Entrance was gained through the skylight to the main part of the plant. Then the intruders forced the door into the office. The small safe, which has been both removed from the premises and jimmied open on the premises, is now enclosed in a heavy wooden frame and the marauders attempted to get at it by whittling around the frame with butcher knives. Only a few notches were made in the wood.

The break-in was discovered around 7 a.m. by Harry Squibb, an employee. Chief Constable Fisher Dunham and County Constable Aubrey Fleury investigated.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Orchids go to our old friend Harry Couse, erstwhile headman hurler of the defunct York-Simcoe softball league, who pitched the Engineers to the championship of the Camp Borden league. The final series went three games. In the first one Couse tossed a six-hitter to lose out as his mates committed four errors. The next game Handsome Harry decided to take no chances and headed a no-hitter. If the final the Engineers found their batting eye and the Cookstown boy pitched a three-hit performance to win the game 13-0. In three final games then Couse allowed but nine hits and blanked his opponents in two. The other game saw only one earned run against him. That, my friends, is a neat bit of twirling in any company and, as you know from the Army teams we've seen this summer, there are quite a few nifty ball players on most teams. In fact a good army team is at least of senior B calibre. It was Couse's second no-hitter performed.

As you will recall, he twirled one last year in the finale against Richmond Hill Roses. Only around 22 or 23, Harry would be sensation in Toronto fast-ball circles if given a chance. When the war is over, he'll still be able to show his stuff if he escapes injury. Our guess is that there are few better hurlers in Ontario right now. No more modest or better liked player ever performed in the district league than Couse.

Red Laking, a teammate from the Barrie Collegians and one of the best outfielders and hitters these parts ever knew, was parked in the outfield and did his bit for Couse and the Engineers with several fine fielding plays.

While on the subject of pitching our scouts bring us news of Bill Thornton, the Tottenham boy, who played junior hockey for Aurora back in 1936. Bill is a corporal with the R.C.A.F. at Moncton, N.B., and has been pitching ball for the fliers in the Moncton city league with considerable success. Sport writers have dubbed him "Iron Arm" Thornton, and rightfully so, because in the march to the title by the airmen he has pitched practically every game. In the final game against a town outfit called the Volcanoes the fliers won out 21-6, allowing ten scattered hits and whiffing seven. In that game Thornton put the skids under his opponents with a bags-full Homer when the teams were about on even terms. So Bill, besides being the ace hurler, is in the Red Ruffing class. He still keeps an interest in Aurora and last year when on leave braved a snowstorm to drop down to Aurora to see the juniors in action.

A hockey romance—Gordon Brennan, bushing defenceman of the Aurora Tigers, wed on Sept. 26 Isobel Cumming, sister of Jimmy Cummings, former Aurora junior and a teammate of Brennan on the Tigers and later with Oakwood Indians in rugby. Gordy started keeping company with Isobel during the days when Aurora hockey threw the two boys together. Last Saturday, continuing their close relationship, the pair teamed up on the backfield for the Indians against Hamilton Wildcats and did a grand job. Jimmy, incidentally, scored the Toronto team's lone touch-down on a brilliant play to give him 15 scoring points and put him in second place in the O.R.F.U. scoring ranks. Roy Dilworth paid him a few nice compliments in his broadcast of the game. Brennan, who is a secondary defenceman, is a deadly tackler.

for Barrie Colts two years ago and was replaced by Ross Waddell in the play-offs after he underwent an operation, has joined the navy and is now stationed in Toronto. Charlie played a few games at Geraldton in the Thunder Bay senior league last year.

Gas restrictions have practically put quietus on inter-town sports unless the centres are close to one another. It appears unlikely that many hockey matches of the type of other years will be played outside the big cities. Taxi trips, which seemed the logical thing, are put out by the 15-mile radius law. Buses can't be hired for sports purposes. No provision is made for trucks to haul teams; so that's out too. True, there is no restriction on how far you can go, provided you have the gas, but who has the gas to spare? And who answers who?

The British government has deemed it wise to allow British soccer teams to travel by road transport, truck, bus or private car within a radius of 50 miles when other transportation cannot be secured. The transportation problem is worse in the tight little isle than in Canada, yet the Churchill government has given sport permission to travel.

No criticism is offered by yours truly nor will you make any, chum, we know, because, after all the British Isles have been through, who are we to criticize? We mention the fact because sports must be more important than even the sporting fraternity in Canada have thought. Fifty miles may not use much by way of gasoline, oil, or tires in England, but freighter space to get rubber and fuel to England is a serious matter. If the government here allowed that 50-mile radius, there isn't an O.H.A. group which couldn't function this winter, even with a player shortage. At that distance would be only play-off trips, which could well be made by train. Perhaps the problem in England is that while you may travel the 50-mile radius, can you find the gas to do so?

Do it right and you seldom hear about it but make a mistake and the wolves come barking at your door. You remember that baseball problem of how to get to first base? Well, we had it worked out right but as we typed we got hold of the word "ball" and put it in too. We knew better, too, but perhaps we weren't as sure as we might have been. When we saw it in print we knew it was wrong. George Haskett, Herbie Cain and Stan Smith of the Davis Leather outfit worked out the problem and found out we were wrong. So we're glad to correct it and say the ball is out. Thanks, fellows, we appreciate the fact you read "Down the Centre" and will be pleased to be corrected at any time. We try hard to be right but we're not perfect.

Hockey rinks, in case you've been wondering, have been granted permission to use their accustomed lighting this winter and that goes, too, for the artificial plants who use quite a bit more juice than natural ice rinks. The lighting outside, however, comes under the same restrictions as the stores and restaurants. There is no doubt, however, but that the rink owners or lessees will see that no needless lights are burning. Probably there'll be some spot or black-out numbers on skating nights, which will probably be well received by the patrons. We mean there'll be more than usual.

Art Russell, former Markham junior hockeyist, has reported to the R.C.A.F. for service, adding to an already long list of boys on service.

Dick Pearson of Sutton has again made dispatches from overseas with his fine quarter-milking. This time he didn't finish better than fourth but it was close and he was up against about the best in the British empire. Pearson is a sergeant and has done well in all the big meets to date. Capt. Alan Pennington, a former Oxford star who toured Canada, took the event. We had the pleasure both of meeting and lunching with Pennington back in 1937 and found him to be everything we had always pictured a top-ranking English sportsman to be. A. J. Bissette, a Canadian from Manitoba, pushed Pennington to the top. Pearson has beaten Bissette in Canadian meets.

Hollywood gets a bit of space now. We ask our readers to name for us the stars who have taken part in the Olympic games and are now doing all right as permanent movie fixtures. There are six that we know of, perhaps more, but we have included only those who are in the star class and have lingered on the scene. You'll find the names at the bottom of the column. Don't spell it by looking now.

Ridge Kelly, known to most as plain "Pop," the sparkling of the Newmarket dominion champs of '32 and erstwhile Maple Leaf and Blackhawk, is located, as we told you a few months ago, in St. Catharines, where he will seek an amateur card and so, "he said, succeed Jimmy Fowler as playing coach of the senior Saints in the O.I.L.A. That's the plan now, but, with players in the pro ranks, "Pop" might just get another whir at big-time competition.

"Red" Horner辟了 all rumors of a return to the hockey James this season by accepting an appointment as linesman for the N.H.L. this season.

Sign of the times. For the first time an outsider won the championship of the Orillia Golf club. Gunner Bill Cameron, of Toronto, a 19-year-old recruit at Orillia camp, won the honors last week. Further sign of the times was the fact that his opponent was a 16-year-old Orillia youth, Bob Dibworth.

Tom Burns, the Markham softballer, has been transferred to Orillia by his bank employers, and Tom Wilson, one of the hockey club executives of the same centre has been transferred by his bank to Carp, Ont.

New draft laws, which lower the age of those to be called to 19, must have given the pro hockey and junior hockey a severe jolt. Most junior A teams numbered quite a few just on the borderline of manhood, and likewise the Maple Leafs and other teams were counting on quite a few 19-year-old boys. Guy Stewart, Shep. Mayor of Guelph, Lorne

Evans of Milton are three of "Happy" Day's young protégés likely to be affected and the other teams will be afraid to go far in including these boys in their plans. The effect on O.H.A. teams will be well imagined. Oshawa Juniors, who have a few of last year's team left over, can thank their stars they picked them young enough when they were bringing in new players. "Red" Tilson, Smith, Guidolin and Curry are only 17 years of age, which leaves them a fine nucleus.

Bill Armstrong, former Aurora and Penetanguishene junior, said also to be in Oshawa, has also yet to see 18. The new draft laws are said not to be applicable until January but many of the lads will beat their call papers to the armed forces, while around play-off time, with the calls in full swing, most teams would be hard hit.

Barrie Colts are taking stock of things and find they have three of last year's team left over, according to press reports from the north, and, of course, they can always get reinforcements from Camp Borden. They also had a smart juvenile team, which leaves them in a fair spot, if they have any opposition to play against.

Walter Duggan of Newtonbrook, now 22, has brought honor to North York sportsmen with his splendid performance at the Dieppe show, which netted him the military medal. Walt attended Earl Haig C.I., where he was prominent in sports and played hockey for North York juveniles and juniors. According to his mother, his big ambition was to make a place with the Toronto Maple Leafs. We remember a few years ago taking a winter jaunt to Willowdale arena, along with Bert Tunney, to look over some prospective material for Aurora juniors. Duggan was one of those we saw in action and tabbed for future reference. He was green but game and with a surplus of talent on hand it didn't look as if Charlie Rowntree could use him. Next year, when we went looking for him, he had joined the army.

So a flip of the coin might have meant one of the Aurora players would have gone on to win a decoration and bring honor to the club. Tunney decided there were enough green youngsters right around home without pulling in another. Perhaps one of the ex-Aurora juniors will emulate Duggan's feat.

The press accounts say he tried heroically to land a heavy mortar on the beach single-handed and then joined others at a machine gun and hot action on the beach. Whatever he did, among a thousand feats of courage and heroism, Duggan's was big enough to merit the M.M. For that matter, Canadian athletes did pretty well. Lieut.-Col. Merritt, the V.C. winner, is a former Vancouver footballer, while Capt. Denny Whitaker, with an M.C., and Lieut. Ewener, with an M.M., are both well-known rugby stars, Whitaker with R.M.C. and Hamilton Tigers, and Ewener with Western U and Sarnia. Our friend, Ben Brachman, a captain with the R.C.A.F., and a former intercity player with Meds. at Queen's University, was mentioned in dispatches.

Heard one about the married man who announced to his wife:

"Dear, I've just taken out a $10,000 insurance policy."

Wife smiled sweetly and said: "That's swell, dear. Now you won't have to call the doctor every time you're sick."

Congratulations to John Mathewson, who on Saturday middle-aled it with Illo Merle Thomson of Toronto. Johnny, who until last month kept store here, leaves shortly to join the armed forces. Back in 1930 as a youngster he was playing juvenile hockey in the Newmarket town league at the time when Bill Hancock was building those big-time Redmen machines. The year following he was passed up in the shuffle for the junior team, altho' a real prospect. Hancock had so many ready-made or imported stars on hand, there wasn't time to experiment. So, following the example set by "Rocco" Smart, he asked and received a trial with Aurora Juniors.

Aurora was trying to buck the canal-towners in those days but could not compete with the Newmarket inducements nor did they have the same capable talent scouts. So they were always just short of being able to meet the Redmen on even terms. Johnny, a thin, wiry kid, was given a chance and turned in some fine performances for a year or two here, altho' he quit hockey just when he was coming into his own. In any case, he had a warm spot in his heart for Aurora, and the feeling was mutually reciprocated, so that in a business way he spent practically all the intervening years here. Lots of luck, Johnny!

Norman Lane is the new director of athletics and rugby coach at St. Andrew's college and on Saturday this team went into action against Pickering firsts and beat the dust. He hasn't had much time with his boys and lacks some of the material of other years. So, on the whole, he hasn't done a bad job. Lane is a graduate of Queen's University and we think he played some minor football there. Later, he took a P.T. course and taught at Cantab in Toronto last year. Mr. Lane comes to St. Andrew's at a time when it will take real ability to bring the Andrews team up to par, and we shall watch his work with interest.

Games have been carded with the fairly strong U.T.S. team both here and in Toronto for October. Berne Taylor, a former Varsity player, has succeeded Lou Hayman as coach at U.T.S. St. Andrew's, with no bus facilities available, will have a curtailed schedule. Ridley and Lakefield will probably not be on the schedule. Present plans include a trip by train to Port Hope to play Trinity college. U.G.C. will play home and away games with St. Andrew's. There will be plenty of games on tap, however, for those who want to journey to the St. Andrew's campus this fall.

Guelph Bay schools from Owen Sound to Orillia, who have always had a strong league each year, have folded up for the duration due to lack of travel facilities. Dr. G. F. Rogers, deputy minister of education, has requested secondary schools to curtail their inter-school program and concentrate on inter-class games. The latter program is all right for a big school. At Hamilton, when the board of education ordered inter-school games cancelled, the students staged a march on the city hall in protest and soon had the effect reversed. We see no point in curtailing school sports in the cities, where transportation is by radial or street-car. There will be, as has been the case the past few years, no North York inter-school track meet but we presume the odd game of soccer can be worked in and the basketball league can be carried on as usual. At least, we hope so.

The individual schools will hold their own school meets, although we're not sure about what will happen at Newmarket high. Aurora, Richmond Hill, Markham and Stouffville have already announced their field days for this fall. Richmond Hill public school held its meet last week, while Aurora is holding its junior meet this week.

The answer to our Hollywood sports question is as follows: Errol Flynn, who was on the British boxing team, Glenn Morris, the Olympic decathlon champion, Sonja Henie, the Norwegian and world figure-skating champion, and the swimming ranks of international sport long dominated by the States, the three-star trio of Johnny Weissmuller (Mr. Tarzan), Buster Crabbe, and the lovely Eleanor Holm, who missed the last Olympic games with a temporary performance. IS WITH QUEEN'S YORKS*POLICE COURT
84-YEAR-OLD MAN
JAILED FOR SELLING

"They got all they wanted for nothing," stated John O'Connor, Newmarket, when pleading not guilty to charges of keeping liquor for sale and of illegal possession, before Magistrate W. N. Robinson in York county police court in Newmarket on Tuesday.

After hearing all the evidence in the case, his worship concluded that the defendant was guilty of selling liquor and sentenced him to jail for a period of two months with the recommendation that, if an application be made to the parole board, he be granted a parole and that his house be declared a public place.

The charge of illegal possession against him was withdrawn.

Chief Constable James Sloss, Newmarket relief inspector, testified that he had known Mr. O'Connor for ten years and that the latter lived by himself at the corner of Main and Queen Sts. He is an old-age pensioner, 84 years old, with an income of approximately $28 a month. The officer said that he had had to investigate the defendant's financial position with regard to a hospitalization bill sent into the town for payment, as the defendant was considered an indigent.

"At about 3 p.m. on July 31, accompanied by Constable Watt, I searched the premises of Mr. O'Connor," testified Chief Constable Sloss. "On entering the front door, I found the accused in the front room, also a woman with three little kiddies, and a man who was not an occupant of the house. I noticed the table was not cleared from dinner. The table was littered with beer bottle caps. I found three partly consumed glasses of beer. On searching the back room I found a partly consumed bottle of liquor.

"I asked Mr. O'Connor if he had a permit to cover this liquor and he said that he had," continued Chief Sloss. "He went to the cupboard in the front room and he produced three permits, one dated Oct. 1, 1928, one Oct. 10, 1941, and a third dated Nov. 29, 1941. The last one was in the name of Earl Bray, a neighbor. The accused said that this covered the bottle of liquor. He said that he had coughed and that a bottle like that lasted him three months."

The officer went on to say that upon making further investigation he found 33 quarts of ale in a small cupboard off the back room.

"There were two cases unopened, one case opened and one case of empties," stated Chief Sloss.

Corroborating the evidence given by Chief Sloss, County Constable Ronald Watt added that there was a padlock on the back room where the cases of beer were kept and that the defendant himself opened the lock for them.

"I asked Mr. O'Connor what was in there and he said some beer," stated the witness.

According to Andrew Hoey and Clifford Reagin, both of Toronto, truck drivers, each of them had made deliveries of beer to Mr. O'Connor's house between May 15 and Aug. 4, but neither could swear that it was the defendant who signed the liquor control board slips on every occasion.

"I might call to your attention, your worship, that according to the slips, during the period from July 4 to July 31 $56 worth of beer was delivered," said N. L. Mathews, K.C., for the crown. "Besides this, during the period from May 15 to Aug. 4 $143.40 worth was delivered. That makes a total of approximately $209 delivered in three months."

"They told me that they were coming to search my house, and I told them, 'alright go ahead,'" stated Mr. O'Connor, when questioned by his own counsel, Charles Evans, Bradford. He admitted having a large quantity of beer delivered to his house but denied selling any of it. He said that some of the beer which was purchased in his name was paid for by Mr. McNeatney, who sometimes stayed at his place.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews as to who was present when the police made a search of his house, Mr. O'Connor said that there was a Mr. Porter and a Mrs. Dunlop. He denied that the last mentioned person had any beer and stated that the third partly consumed glass of beer belonged to the truck driver who a short time previously had delivered some beer.

Asked by the crown what Mrs. Dunlop was doing at his house if she was not drinking, the defendant replied: "I don't know, maybe I was a good neighbor and a good talker."

"Where did you get the money for the beer?" questioned the crown.

"Mr. McNeatney paid for some of it," replied the defendant. "Sometimes I have a winner supper, and have seven or eight people in. Some of my friends give me a little gift." He denied selling any beer to anyone. "They got all they want for nothing," he stated.

"There were 11 cases of beer delivered in one week, there must have been several winner suppers that week," commented the crown.

After a search of the files of Chief Constable Sloss, counsel for the defence told his worship that the defendant had been in the hospital from May 15 to May 30, during which time six purchases of beer amounting to $47.60 had been made in Mr. O'Connor's name by some other person.

"After considering this case carefully and taking into account the age of the accused, I must come to the conclusion that he kept liquor for sale," stated Magistrate Robinson. "I must, in view of the age of the accused, give every consideration to every doubt there might be. Between May 15 and May 30 $47.60 worth was purchased. I am not considering that. During the months of June and July I find that the accused did receive beer to the amount of $162.40. If the accused had been giving beer to friends who called, I do not think that he would have had it under lock and key. He would have had it in a cupboard or some place handy to take out. This man is an old-age pensioner. He has not been in trouble before. I think it is unfortunate that he should run a

PRINCE ALBERT MAYOR VISITS NEWMARKET

Mayor S. J. A. Branion, K.C., of Prince Albert, Sask., was the guest of Mrs. J. W. Brown last week. Mayor Branion was a delegate to the tenth general council of the United Church of Canada held in Belleville, Sept. 9 to 12. He was one of five delegates commissioned to call on Premier Mackenzie King concerning the liquor question and to report back to the general council.

Mayor Branion made complimentary comments about Pickering College, Newmarket high school and the military camp. He was surprised to learn that the pencils he had been using for years, manufactured by Dixon Pencil Co., were made in Newmarket, and that office equipment used throughout the dominion was made by the Office Specialty Mfg. Co.

He was thrilled with the number of trees about the town, especially the old elm on Timothy St.

Mayor Branion left on Wednesday evening to attend the banquet in Toronto for Dr. J. R. P. Slater, newly appointed moderator, and then took the midnight train for home, having enjoyed the autumnal beauty of old Ontario once again.

Mr. Branion was a school chum of the late J. W. Brown. They attended St. Mary's Collegiate and Toronto normal school together.

place like that and allow a woman whose husband is in the army to go there and bring three small children. She went there as often as three times a week to get beer. I am going to give the minimum penalty of two months. I am willing to pass along a recommendation for a parole."

Magistrate Robinson found Elias Smart not guilty of unlawfully driving on Queen St., Newmarket, on Sept. 18, when his car was in collision with a motorcycle driven by Earby Bray, Newmarket, at the corner of Raglan St.

According to Mr. Bray, he had been riding east on Queen, shortly after noon on the day in question, and as he approached Raglan St. the car driven by the defendant, which was going west, made a sudden left-hand turn, colliding with his motorcycle and throwing him to the pavement. The witness stated that there was a man standing on the running-board of Mr. Smart's car at the time. He said that he had been travelling at about 15 miles an hour and that the Smart car was going slowly also.

"Did he give any indication that he was going to make the turn?" asked Mr. Mathews. The witness said not.

Arnold Leeder, Newmarket, who was standing on the corner of Raglan and Queen Sts. at the time the accident occurred, testified that the Smart car had turned in front of the motorcycle.

"Mr. Bray was going on his own side of the road and Mr. Smart's car cut right across," he stated.

Chief Sloss, who investigated the accident, informed his worship that the point of impact, as indicated by dirt on the road and pointed out to him by both Mr. Bray and Mr. Smart, was practically in the centre of Queen St.

"What was Mr. Smart's condition?" asked the crown.

"I didn't notice any alcohol," replied the officer.

Lyle Bond, Newmarket, witness for the defence, told his worship that he saw Mr. Bray riding with one leg up in the air and his head bent down.

"In my opinion it was not safe to much speed and not seeing where he was going," stated the witness.

Gordon Boddington, Newmarket, and Milton Lepard, Queensville, both passengers in the Smart car, testified that in their opinion the complainant, Mr. Bray, had lost control of his motorcycle.

"I believe that the motorcycle was not operated in a proper manner," ruled his worship. "To put it mildly, there is doubt and I'll give the accused the benefit of this doubt. The case will be dismissed."

"Sobbers have no more right to drive over the speed limit than anyone else," Magistrate Robinson advised. William E. Reid, Camp Border, with Provincial Constable Alex Ferguson, stated was travelling on Yonge St. on Sept. 11. "Some men think that because they are in the army they can do as they please."

Constable Ferguson testified that Reid had been driving his motorcar at over 50 miles an hour in some places. Mr. Reid stated that he had been taking a passenger to Toronto to meet a train for Hamilton. He did not think that he was going over 50 miles an hour.

The treasurer was authorized to issue a cheque to Mrs. C. Heading, Newtonbrook, for $0.55, the amount of the overpayment on property described as lots three and eight inclusive, plus 15¢.

Sheep claims were paid as follows: J. M. Gillham, $39; Gordon Doner, $15; C. Staley, $12; M. A. Wilson, $58.

Wm. Bishop was paid $2 for his services as sheep valuator. T. C. Wray, $2; C. H. Stewart, $2, and Frank Williams, $2.

The meeting then adjourned.

The regular meeting will be held in the afternoon at the Community hall, Nobleton, on Saturday, Nov. 7, at 8 a.m., or at the call of the chair.
